

I took the time to sign up for telephone privacy which means I don't want any unsolicited calls from anyone. It seems that if they can't get through to people on the web due to spam blockers, and using the U.S. mails doesn't work because their mailings are thrown away, they want to "open the lines of communication" so to speak ignoring my request for privacy.